Dead sheep reports were 'exaggerated' says ranger

Daily press reports of sheep dying from starvation in a West Altona paddock, had been exaggerated out of all proportion, according to an Altona ranger, Mr. Robert Heyen.

A sheep forces its head through a wire fence to find a few blades of grass on the other side.

Mr. Heyen said the sheep were dying from old age and the cold snap weather conditions.

There were about 2000 sheep in the paddock and about 30 died in the past week.

Mr. Heyen said that when an industrial dispute stopped work in a local slaughter house last week, the grassless paddock in West Altona was the only place available to hold the sheep.

They were being fed 300 bales of hay each day and were certainly not starving, he said.

On Tuesday morning
there were at least 50
bales in the paddock which had not yet been touched.

Mr. Heyen said the industrial dispute had ended but the sheep could not be slaughtered until the weather cleared up.

Sheep cannot be killed when they are dirty or wet.

Mr. Heyen described the situation as just one of those unfortunate incidents, caused by the bad weather.

The situation was not very bad, he said, and had been exaggerated out of all proportion by the daily press.

"Two hundred thousand dollars is certainly a large sum of money to be spent in 12 months, but I believe this points to the fact that Altona residents have been complaining for valid reasons.

"I don't think the company can feel virtuous about this impressive sum as I feel the money should have been spent on the these installations in the construction of the complex — before any processing was even started at the plant."

Mrs. Wells, who has lived in Altona for 50 years, received wide television and newspaper coverage when she started her fight against pollution last year.

Her latest step is a letter to the Premier (Sir Henry Bolte), sent early last month, but for which she has had no reply.

Mrs. Wells' letter to The Star is as follows:

"Reading of the modifications I find they do not say that for the new smokeless flare to be working in a manner
whereby there's no smoke, we won't have to tolerate an excessive noise pollution that sounds like jet engines.

"The construction of effluent ponds I presume will be for the purpose of a different pollution problem than the air pollution we residents complain of.

"Late last year there was a lot of publicity given to a fire at the Footscray tip of burning oil sludge. This would indicate that complexes processing oil and its by-products would have to clean effluent.

"After application was made to rezone land near the complex from industrial to residential, the APC placed an objection on the grounds that the type of work carried on at the plant could result in a catastrophe.

"Cr. Crofts asked that they explain what was meant by the word 'catastrophe.' I have as yet not seen a report as to what the APC's answer was.

"If there is anything worse than the fumes we have to endure, I am sure we should have that question answered.

In closing I would like to add that as long as the fumes affect my health, I will not be impressed by any large sums of money spent on modifications, reported in the press.

Five years' wait over

A man was sentenced in Williamstown Court last Thursday to one month's imprisonment for a crime committed almost five years ago.

Robert Henry Wilson pleaded guilty before Mr. F. Clancy, SM, to a charge of stealing goods valued at $796 from a second-hand furniture shop belonging to Hazel Beckett, in Railway Street, Altona, on May 24, 1966.

Wilson's address was given as 69 Leicester Street, West Preston, but at the time of the crime, he lived in Sargood Street, Altona.

The court was told that Wilson was interviewed by police in Adelaide in June 1966, and voluntarily made a written statement about the robbery.

Wilson was not arrested until January 24 this year.

The court was told that Wilson drove his day through the shop's plate glass window and with an accomplice, took three television sets and several pairs of blankets.

The goods were taken to a house in Sunshine and from there Wilson tried to sell them in public bars of hotels.

The court was told that Wilson finally found a buyer who gave him $200 for all the goods. He gave $50 each to his accomplice and his friend from Sunshine, and went interstate.

Wilson admitted prior convictions for attempted false pretences, larceny, wilful damage and having insufficient means of support.

Defence counsel for Wilson submitted that these convictions, with one exception, had all occurred at least 11 years ago and that Wilson had been in steady employment since 1966.

He submitted that Wilson had a de facto wife and eight children dependent on him.

In sentencing Wilson to one month's imprisonment, Mr. Clancy said that he was satisfied that Wilson had been the instigator of the crime.

A.P.C. LOSES ITS HEAD

Mr. O. R. Smith (left), general manager of Altona Petrochemical Company, is presented with a kangaroo skin bag at his recent farewell party.

Mr. Smith leaves the company soon to join the Bayway plant of Enjay Chemicals Company in the U.S. He will be replaced by Mr. D. E. McMillan, previously the general manager of the Japan Butyl Company.

No stranger to A.P.C., Mr. McMillan was associated with the company from 1959 to 1961 when he was the resident engineer and project manager.

Mr. Smith joined A.P.C. in February 1960 during the early stages of plant production as the assistant technical superintendent.

He was promoted to plant manager in 1964 and general manager in 1969.

Stole from landlord, sentenced to gaol

A 28-year-old man who told police he was "sick and tired of sponging" off his landlord was sent to gaol for 14 days by Mr. F. Clancy SM in Williamstown Court last Thursday.

Douglas Ronald McColl, of no fixed address, pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing $8.69 and a travelling rug from his landlord, Mr. John Nugent, of Seaholme, on January 22.

Constable Geoff Brown, of Essendon police, who arrested McColl in Strathmore on January 25, told the court that the defendant had worked for Nugent doing housework.

He said that McColl found the cash in an envelope on Nugent's floor, and took the rug from his own room. McColl told police he had spent the money on food and fares and that he was trying to get a job.

NICK'S SIGHTS ARE SET ON OLYMPIC GOLD

Weightlifter, Nick Ciano, 24, is determined to win a gold medal at the next Olympic Games in Munich.

Ciano of Chambers Road, Altona holds the Australian middle, heavy and light heavyweight records.

He won a gold medal at the Commonwealth Games in Edinburgh, Scotland, last year after a string of earlier successes.

These include the gold medal he gained at the American Championships held in Columbus, Ohio, winning the HSV-7 World of Sport competition in his section and coming first in the Singapore international competition, which he says gave him an unfair advantage because he was 'bigger than anybody else.'

"Weightlifting is a different type of sport from all the others, Nick said.

"The age of peak achievement for swimmers, for example, is about 16. A weightlifter starts competing seriously around the age of 25 and reaches his peak at 28 or 30.

"Some people think that weightlifting and bodybuilding are the same. "Bodybuilders spend their time lifting light weights and admiring themselves in the mirror. "Professional weightlifters don't care about their muscle development for its own sake, they concentrate on lifting heavy weights.

"A lot of people think that winning a gold medal at the Olympics is an impossible feat for them, so they don't even try.

"It seems a long way off but I'm doing my hardest to get there.

"I'm only 89 lbs. from the world's record.

"At the Commonwealth Games I wasn't at my best because although I was eating like mad, I lost a stone in weight in eight days.

"Before leaving I lifted 1047 lbs. and at the Games it was 986 lbs.

Sacrifice

"We had nearly an all New Australian team at the Commonwealth Games. There was only one Australian. We tried to make him feel as if he belonged and he got a gold medal too.

"In training for the Olympics you've got to sacrifice every spare moment you have."

Ciano, who works as a sewing machine mechanic, trains at the YMCA with trainer Les Martin six nights a week and Saturday mornings.

"You've got to be a loner in this game. I haven't the time to hang around with my mates," he said.

"My family is not very understanding either. They always tell me why don't I get married or something. But I think they're proud of me in their own way."

Ciano spent two months in Poland after taking part in the world championship there.

He is impressed by the way sportsmen are treated behind the Iron Curtain.

"There is a world of difference between spending all your time preparing for a competition and training after a hard day's work.

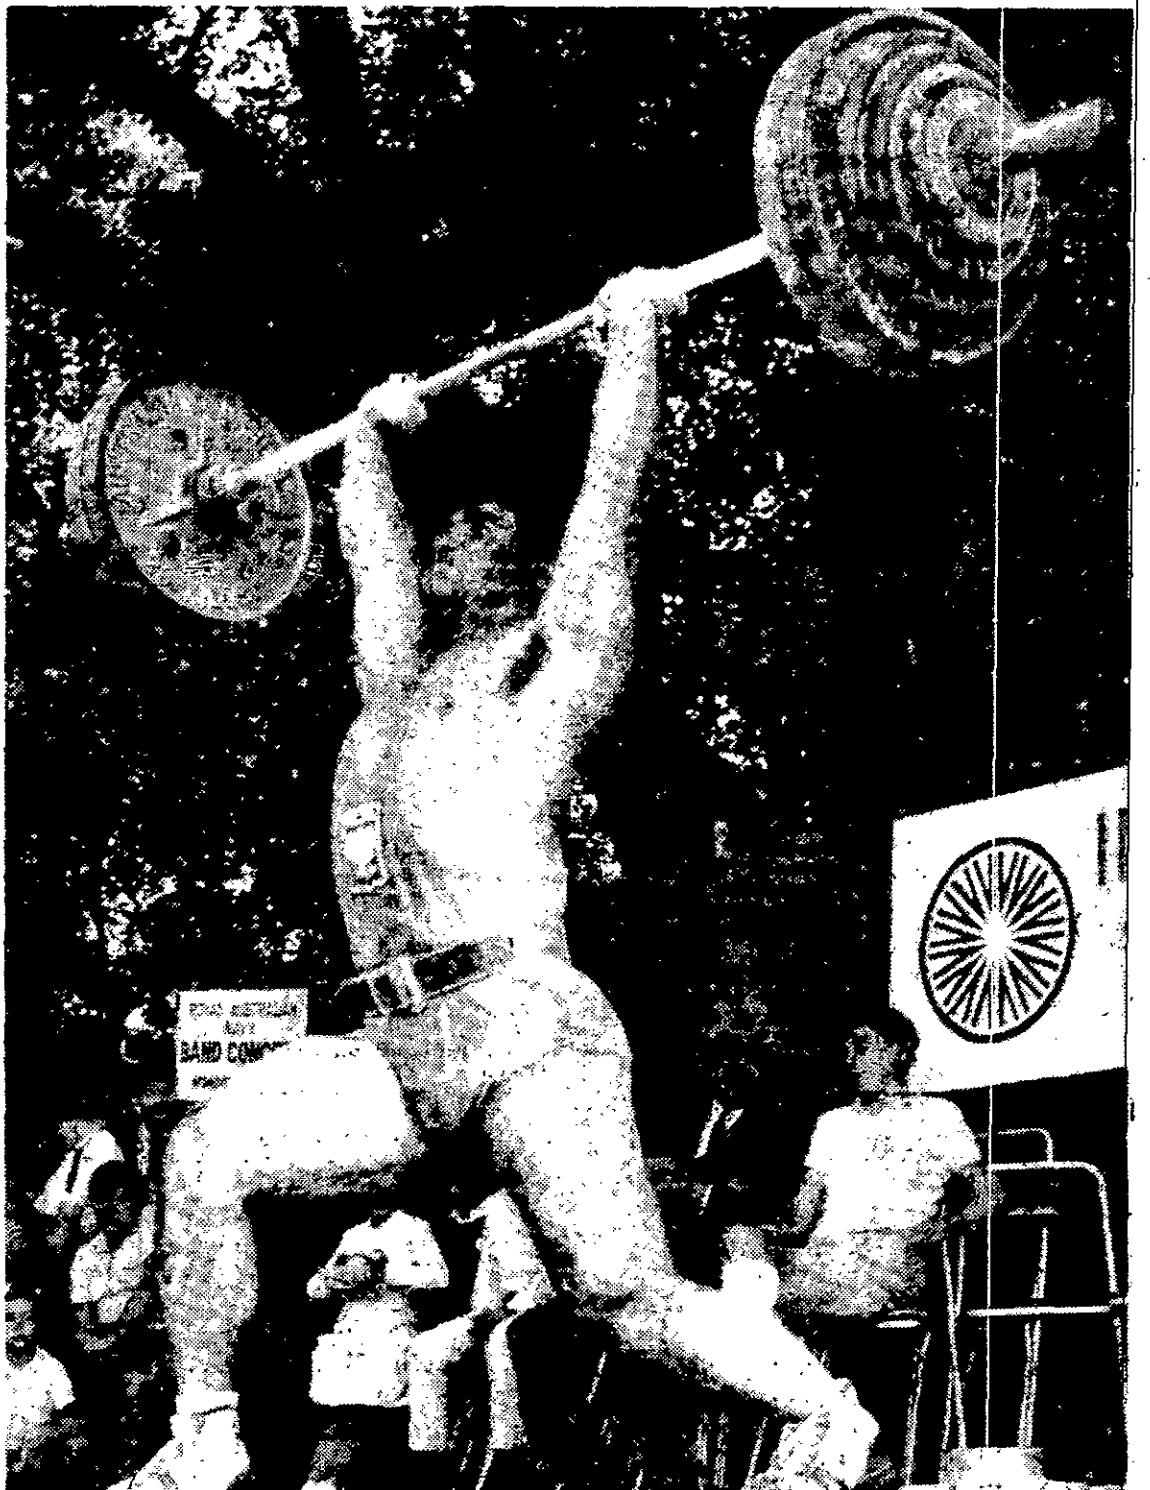

"Even so, we did very well at the American championships. Australia got nine gold medals."

Ciano looked contemptuously at the muscle-flexing pin-ups on the wall on the YMCA gym.

"They're weak, I bet they couldn't lift 112 lbs. off the ground.

"You've got to put everything you've got into weightlifting if you want to be a world champion.

"I'm going to make it because I do."

Nick Ciano preparing for victory at the trials of the Commonwealth Games in Edinburgh last year. Ciano now has his sights on an Olympic gold medal.

Val's Column

Hello Girls,
Let's face it Girls, there are times when fighting kids, crying babies or too many late nights just catch up on us. Then lo and behold you have that special luncheon or party — and how tired you look! Help!

Here are brightening up ideas.

Revlon brings you Build Up Firming Facial. If your skin is in the normal to oily class this will form, stimulate and tighten for you. It improves circulation, tightens the pores, brightens the tone and gives an alive look and feel. Used according to other directions this also helps rid you of embedded dirt, makeup and blackheads.

MoonDrops Facial Mask is a refreshingly, mildly stimulating, toning mask for normal to dry complexions.

Sensitive skins can be refreshed, relaxed with Eterna 27 Facial Mask — it is so mild.

Cyclax 20 Minute Mask — just marvellous for that quick pick-up. Firms and tones, stimulating as it smooths out tension and fatigue lines and enlivening color.

Each and every day if you wish, use Cyclax Confortilm as an under makeup firming film — it tightens and restores youthful contours. It gently tautens fine lines, stimulates and revitalizes tired tissue and muscles. Continue down your neck with "Neckline" using under makeup to keep up the work so to speak.

Reaffirm by Dorothy Gray. A contour facial blended with gentle astringents and rich emollients to smooth, firm and tighten the skin.

Coty Line-Away. A temporary wrinkle smoother. Smooths away lines and wrinkles in 2 — 3 minutes, lasts up to five hours, can be de-activated by water. Is not a face lift, not a treatment, but a clever protein cosmetic. Contains no harmful chemicals or hormones, and actually helps retain natural moisture in your skin.

We all know Decore's Magic Silver White and how it colors blonde, brown, grey and white hair. Now there is Magic Silver Rose Girls. Just add a few drops to a basin of water and dip in. Try a change — or mix with your Magic Silver White Wow! What a lovely color Girls. No need to boil the water. So easy.

A history of land development in Altona

This last instalment of Altona's land development history deals with the opening up of the land through the subdividing of various estates. Altona's population which now stands at 28,000 is predicted to grow to 48,000 by 1980.

All the other estates were developed from the late 1940s up to about 1960 by various estate groups, however, quite a number of new estates have and are still being developed in this area. Details are:—

Galvin Estate No. 2: Palm, Park, Maidstone and Morrow Streets, sold on behalf of Altona Beach Estates Ltd. for an average price of £125 ($250) per lot, in 1949.

Reserve Strip Stages 1 and 2 in the area of Maidstone Street, sold for an average price of £150 ($300) per lot for Galvin Estates Pty. Ltd. in 1954.

Bay Park Housing Estate (in the Seaholme area) sold for Seaholme Housing Estates Ltd. for an average price of £200 ($400) per lot in 1952.

Station Estate area bounded by Civic Parade, the railway, the MMBW drain and Millers Road, was sold in 1956 for Seaholme Housing Estates Ltd. for an average of £400 ($800) per lot. This area was, the writer understands, constructed for the benefit of migrants who wanted to buy houses.

Civic Centre Estate area, Maidstone Street, Wren Street, Grieve Parade, Belmar Street, was put on the market in February, 1959, for Calvin Estates Pty. Ltd. and sold for an average price of £1100 ($2200) per lot.

South Lands Estate was sold for George Wimpey and Co. in 1963 for an average of £1250 ($2500) per lot.

All the foregoing were sold by the well known firm of Willmore and Randall. The Southlands Estate is still in the process of development by G. Wimpey and Co., but sales are being handled by J. R. Buxton.

Due to council policy the street names on this and other new estates are usually those of early residents and distinguished residents of present day Altona.

Turning to Altona North and East, most of the new estates have been west of Millers Road, as the others, as previously stated already existed, all they needed was developing.

There have been quite a number of these new estates and the writer has yet to track them all down. One of these was called "MacArthurs Road Estate," but quite a few were just referred to as land in Altona North.

Slough Estates. No history would be complete unless mention was made of this unique enterprise. Briefly, Slough Estates Ltd., was formed in 1920 in Great Britain to develop 600 acres of an unfinished First World Motor Lorry Depot, near the town of Slough, the site of a medieval swamp.

After restoring the cars and lorries and selling them, the company embarked on estate development, that is, constructing buildings, even a power station and leasing to industrial groups.

After World War II, the company began estates in Canada, Belgium — and Altona. Let the company explain how it came to Altona.

"Sir Noel Mobbs (chairman of the company) went out to Melbourne in 1949 intending to buy a small piece of land suitable for a trading estate.

He favored Melbourne because it was British orientated while Sydney tended to look to the USA. Instead of a small property he was offered 1500 acres of land at Altona, west of Melbourne, at a very advantageous price.

Unlike "Ajax" (Canadian Estate), which had all the communications and services that an industrial community would need, Altona was two square miles of scrub and swamp, a 'slough' such as the company's home territory had not known for centuries.

It was separated from Melbourne by the Yarra River and the city had therefore spread eastwards. The railway between Melbourne and Geelong passed through the land and the highway through its northern edge, but drainage was needed to make the wilderness blossom with bricks and mortar and this undertaking was low on the list of local priorities.

Ten years after the purchase, Slough Estates Ltd. was still petitioning in vain for services to be extended to its land. In 1959 a petroleum group established nearby (the Petrochemical Company) wanted land for expansion. It was agreed to sell 327 acres at £200 ($400) per acre.

Written by ALLAN J. CLARK, Hon. Secretary of the Altona Historical Society.

Within a few months the purchaser bought another 200 acres this time at £1000 ($2000) per acre. In 1961 Slough Estates Australia Ltd. was formed.

Five years later, the company negotiated an agreement with the MMBW to provide all the necessary services and gave the Board of Works 220 acres of its low lying ground (area west of Koorringal golf course and north of Queen Street) to serve as a catchment area for the neighborhood.

On the remaining 706 acres factories have been rising and let (near Galvin Railway Station). In 1969 there were eight tenants leasing 92,000 square feet of buildings. Today there are eight tenants.

The Nordennes are another building and land concern still in operation today. Here is a perfect example of a migrant family coming to Australia and making good.

In 1951 Mr. and Mrs. L. Nordenne came to Altona and within a few months bought their first block of land in Upton Street, Altona, from Mr. W. Gaskin who was then a prominent local estate agent, for $440.

From then the Nordennes kept buying land, generally several blocks at a time, to build on and/or to resubdivide. Most times they would build a house on the blocks and sell again.

In 1957 they bought about 30 blocks in the Kookaburra-Dove Avenue area (part of "the Aviary") from the Wren estate for an average price of £450 ($900).

The blocks were all built on and sold by the following year. The Wren family appears to have owned most of the land in this area at the time.

About 1961 the Nordennes purchased 33 acres of land along Civic Parade from Fresno Street to Millers Road, comprising 165 blocks. These were sold for an average of $3200.

They were owned by Seaholme Housing Estates, who later on sold us the 65 acres along Millers Road and backing the railway line, this is called the Bayside Village Estate and comprises 325 blocks of land.

This estate is being developed in two stages, the first is almost complete and the second has only been in development for a year or so. Current selling price is $4400.

As far as housing development in the Altona, Altona North and west areas, this will have reached completion in a very few years. Most of the future housing estates will be in the extreme west of the Altona municipality, in the Altona Meadows area.

The Council is at present developing the section of the old Laverton estate in Altona and the old Truganina Explosives Reserve is to be developed in the future.

As far as Industrial Estates are concerned some areas have yet to be developed but the new West Gate bridge is expected to hasten development. Slough Estate has remained nearly all paddocks for the past 20 years, however, this estate is showing signs of moving and the new bridge should help.

The following is a table showing Altona's growth: Pre 1900, less than 50, 10 houses; 1911, 50, 15 houses; 1921, 515, 114 houses; 1933, 1722, 408 houses; 1947, 3155, 785 houses; 14/4/51, 4100, 1117 houses; 5/6/57, 8000, 2300 houses; 30/6/61, 15,811, 3960 houses; 30/6/68, 24,984, 6280 houses; 5/6/67, 26,680, 6670 houses; 1/1/70, 28,000, 7114 houses.

Today's population exceeds 28,000 and cannot increase much more in the developed areas.

With the development of the Altona Meadows Estates the population should grow to about 48,000 by 1980 and approximately 58,000 at the turn of the century.

Two take silver in athletics

Two Altona North High School students recently won silver medals at the Women's amateur athletics championships at Royal Park West.

They are Jenny Davison and Giannina Sardi.

Jenny, who competed in both the senior and junior long jump events lost the junior and came second in the senior, competing against much older girls.

Giannina won her medal in the sub-junior discus, where she threw 113 ft. 6 in. three feet behind the winning throw.

Jenny fell short of her mark in the junior jumping event finishing fourth beaten by a quarter inch by the placegetter. She jumped approximately a foot less than her best jump.

However in the senior event, she improved her best-ever jump 18' 0 3/4" by jumping a further two inches.

She was only three and a quarter inches behind the winner Kerri Bancroft.

Both girls seem likely to be considered for the Australian championships in March.

The sheep arrived from Mt. Gambier in South Australia in 77 railway vans, representing the biggest livestock train ever to run in Victoria.

McCracken death

Mr. Kenneth John McCracken, a former instructor with the Barkly Motor school in Footscray, died suddenly at his home in Williams Street, Newport, last Thursday.

Mr. McCracken had lived in the Western suburbs for most of his life and before moving to Newport four years ago, lived in Maidstone.

He was a keen angler, particularly at Apollo Bay, where he had a holiday house.

A requiem mass was offered for Mr. McCracken, a Mason, at Sacred Heart Church, Newport.

Funeral arrangements were directed by Stanley Hollibone and Son.

Mr. McCracken is survived by his wife Eileen and son John.

American visit

Epsilon Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi held a coffee morning at the home of the President, Mrs. Pauline Baker, on January 20 to farewell one of its members, Mrs. Sheila Hartley.

Mrs. Hartley, with her husband and four children, will be leaving Australia for a 12-month assignment in the United States.

They will live in Victoria, Texas. Sheila hopes to be able to transfer to a Chapter in the States and, with this in mind, she was presented with a trip diary in which to record items of interest to bring back to Epsilon Chapter members about Beta Sigma Phi activities in Texas.

The Hartleys are one of three families, who will leave Altona shortly on similar assignments and who will be neighbors in Victoria, Texas.

It will be interesting to hear their views about living in the States as Victoria is a town similar in size and population to Altona as well as having a similar industrial complex.

One of the highlights of the trip will be a visit to Disneyland.

Mrs. Hartley and her children are pictured above.

Fined over collision

Fees for an interpreter were charged to a young Williamstown driver found guilty in Williamstown Court last week on a charge of failing to give way to a vehicle on his right.

Mr. F. Clancy SM fined Bruce Hynes, of 205 Melbourne Road, Newport, $15 with $13.20 costs for an interpreter.

Hynes pleaded guilty and the witness needing an interpreter was not called to give evidence.

Constable O'Hearn, of Newport police told the court the defendant had reported an accident at the intersection of North and Home roads, Newport, on June 6 last year.

Constable O'Hearn said Hynes had been travelling south along Home Road and collided with a cyclist at the North Road intersection.

He said O'Hearn had seen the cyclist but because the latter was riding close to the kerb O'Hearn assumed he would turn left at the intersection.

The court was told Hynes took the cyclist to the Newport clinic and then reported the accident to the police.

Didn't carry 'P' plates

A young Spotswood driver was fined $12 in Williamstown Court last Thursday for driving without 'P' plates.

John Robert Bowers, of 17 Blackshaws Road, did not appear in court.

Constable Grant of Williamstown police told the court he followed Bowers' car along Aitken Street, Williamstown, and finally intercepted it in Pascoe Street.

Grant said Bowers told him he was not carrying 'P' plates because so many had been stolen from his car that he had run-out of them.

Mr. F. Clancy SM fined Bowers $12.

A breakthrough in financial journalism.

Business Age

EDITED BY LESLIE CARLYON

A lively, new enlarged business section daily in The Age.

Wednesday, February 3rd, sees the end of the conservative traditions of daily financial journalism. "Business Age" will be published daily in "The Age". It's a comprehensive section devoted entirely to everything that matters in finance, business, investment and the nation's economy. And you don't need a degree in commerce to read it.

* John Mitchell writes a new weekly column on Property Investment — there's no other comparable column in Melbourne.
* "Business Age" gives a new daily section for the Man on the Land.

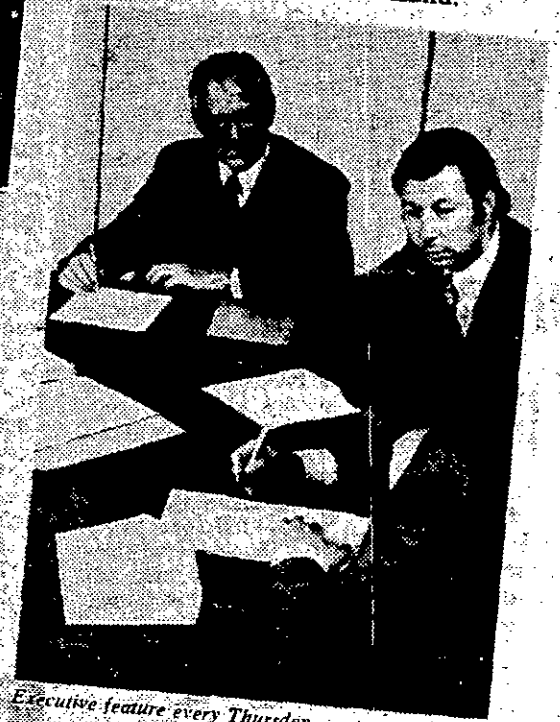

A computer feature every Tuesday.

* A new column for the Saver. For those who want to invest their money (even small amounts) outside the share market. Essential reading for people with a few hundred dollars to invest — and no idea how to invest it.

* The "Business Age's" own Canberra staff will give all the latest news and will interpret trends in the economy.

* Each Monday "Business Age" will have all the prices and trends on the London money market from our own correspondent.

* Each day "Business Age" will provide more comment than ever before on daily Company reports.

Executive feature every Thursday.

All this, plus the regular "Age" experts: Gary Oliver, Ian Robertson, Kevin Boyle, Barry Flint, Graeme McDougall, Bob Walker and Editor, Les Carlyon... features on Computers each Tuesday, The Business of Farming each Friday, the Daily Market Column — (still the only one of its kind in Australia)... the Mining Column... the regular Monday Diary... the Weekly City Round... and the regular Thursday Executive page.

Coverage of all industrial news.

Each day "Business Age" will be full of human interest — with concise, accurate and imaginative coverage of news.

No other newspaper will match its wideness of cover or brightness of presentation.

If you're involved in making money, "Business Age" speaks your language.

Financial Editor — Les Carlyon.

Look at these brand new features.

* Each day "Business Age" will give the share investor by far the best service in Australia. There's a complete Melbourne and a brand new Sydney Stock Exchange table every day. Unit Trust prices each Monday and a report on the share option business every Wednesday.

Trends on the London money market — covered every Monday.

Commencing Wednesday February 3rd and every day in "The Age"

Hospital gets money from walkathon

Altona Hospital president Mr. Bob Stringer (left) accepts a cheque of the proceeds from a recent walkathon from Mr. Reg Higgins, president of the Altona Combined Service Clubs Hospital Appeal Committee.

The committee has reported a result of $882.65 from the walkathon.

Several entries are still outstanding and the final result is expected to be more than $900.

Seventy-eight walkers took part and top money-raisers with $70 each were Miss M. Zammit of Fabstream Engineer Pty. Ltd. and Altona Hospital's Matron Smith.

Business commitments have forced Mr. Ray Rivett to resign his presidency of the Hospital Appeal Committee.

Mr. Higgins of Altona Rotary has taken his place.
